CRIMINAL RECORD

b6
b7C

A review of arrest records of the Milwaukee PD on August 26, 1965 revealed under PD # 55428, JAMES JENNARO who was born April 13, 1930, was arrested on October 15, 1949 on a charge of resisting an officer and was placed on probation for one year in order to pay the court costs. He also was arrested on June 8, 1952 on a charge of indecent liberties with a female minor, and was ordered to pay $50 and costs.

PERSONAL HABITS

Information regarding subject's personal habits has not been developed.

FINANCIAL INTERESTS

Records of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce Credit Bureau reviewed on October 22, 1965 reveal that subject has been known to the credit bureau since 1957 and he resides at [redacted] Milwaukee, Wisconsin, with his wife, [redacted]. He formerly resided at 1637 North Van Buren and 4102 North Wilson Drive, both in Milwaukee. The credit Bureau reported that he has always paid promptly, and that he was listed as an employee of Spicuzzo Banana Company for the past 12 years. It was reported that he has a low three figure checking account at the Marshall & Ilsley Bank in Milwaukee and an application he submitted for an American Express Company credit card was rejected by the American Express Company. It was noted from a review of the credit bureau files that a report was prepared, dated May 13, 1960 for the Credit Bureau of Cook County, Inc., number 0476. It is noted that a review of the City Clerk's records at Milwaukee has revealed that subject has a $4,000 security deposit for performance on file at that office in connection with the license to operate the Chez Joey.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date August 23, 1968-1-

The following observations were made by Special Agents [redacted] on August 20, 1968, during the course of spot checks at the Brass Rail, the Downtowner and the Ad Lib:

[redacted] was observed at 8:45 p.m. sitting at the bar at the Brass Rail. [redacted] was talking to an unidentified individual who later tended bar there. Shortly after the arrival of the agents, [redacted] left stating that he was going for a walk; and approximately 20 minutes later, he returned carrying a shopping bag, which he said contained toilet paper.

While at the Brass Rail, the bartender, JOHN, whose last name was not known to the agents, indicated that the Brass Rail had been sold to a party whose name he did not know. It was JOHN's understanding that the Brass Rail would be moved to an, as yet, undetermined location. JOHN did not know what type of establishment would occupy those premises after the shifting of the location of the Brass Rail.

[redacted] was observed tending bar at the Downtowner, and he indicated to the agents that [redacted] the regular bartender at the Downtowner, was on vacation and would return on or about August 30, 1968. He did not volunteer information regarding [redacted] whereabouts, but he did state that [redacted] is presently looking for a new house. [redacted] said that he will be on vacation the first two weeks in September.

JOSEPH ENEA was observed tending bar at the Ad Lib, and JIMMY JENNARO was observed sitting at the extreme west end of the bar.

At approximately 10:15 p.m., Special Agents [redacted] went to The Downtowner Lounge, 340 West Wells, at which time [redacted] were observed tending bar therein.

The Agents then proceeded to the Ad Lib Club, 323 West Wells, located across the street from The Downtowner. On entering the Ad Lib, [redacted] was observed collecting cover charges at the door. Also observed inside of the Ad Lib were the manager, JIMMY JENNARO; the head bartender, JOE ENEA; along with [redacted]

At the Brass Rail, 744 North Third Street, [redacted] was observed sitting at the bar. At one point, Special Agent [redacted] asked a waitress if [redacted] had been at the Brass Rail that evening. The waitress replied he had not and she had not seen him for several days.

At The Clock Bar, 715 North 5th Street, [redacted] was observed, along with SALVATORE CEFALU.

No one of interest was observed at either The Scene, 624 North 2nd Street, or The Attic, 641 North 2nd Street

Title: JAMES RAYMOND JENNARO

Character: ANTI-RACKETEERING

Synopsis: Subject continues to be employed by FRANK BALISTRERI as nightclub manager; however, liquor license for Ad Lib Club no longer in his name.

b6

DETAILS: On November 7, 1968, MI T-10 advised that subject was ordered to report to the office of [REDACTED] City Attorney, on November 4, 1968, to straighten out a matter concerning his name appearing as licensee for the liquor license at the Ad Lib Club and also to verify that subject being a non-resident of the City of Milwaukee was in violation of city ordinances governing liquor permits.

At the time JENNARO appeared before the City Attorney, he was accompanied by his Attorney, JOSEPH BALISTRERI, son of FRANK PETER BALISTRERI. As a result of this meeting, no warrant was issued for JENNARO based on the City Attorney's arguments that the city ordinance covering residence of a liquor licensee was vague and ambiguous, and that there was a lack of proof on the part of police authorities to establish JENNARO's residence outside the city limits of Milwaukee, and also due to the fact JENNARO's attorney indicated JENNARO would be removed as licensee on the liquor permit for the Ad Lib Club.

On November 12, 1968, it was determined that JOSEPH BALISTRERI appeared before the City Licensing Commission and substituted the name of [REDACTED] for JENNARO on the liquor license for the Ad Lib Club.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

-1-Date December 6, 1968

During the course of spot checks at several local restaurants and taverns, the following persons and activities were observed:

At approximately 9:45 p.m., Special Agents EUGENE I. SATHER, and [ ] entered the Downtowner Night Club, located at 340 West Wells, and noted that neither [ ] were tending bar. The bartenders were [ ] and an unidentified white male, approximately 55 years old, 5'7" tall, 160 pounds, with dark hair graying at the sides. This individual wore dark rimmed glasses. On inquiry of the unknown male as to the whereabouts of [ ] he simply advised that [ ] was off. No inquiry was made concerning the whereabouts of [ ]

At approximately 10:20 p.m., the Agents entered the Ad Lib Club, 323 West Wells, where they noted that JOE ENEA was not working behind the bar; however, [ ] was observed behind the bar.

During the course of his announcements, [ ] the Master of Ceremonies at the Ad Lib Club, introduced [ ] as "The new bar manager, [ ]"

During the course of being waited upon, Agent [ ] inquired of an unidentified waitress as to the whereabouts of JIMMY JENARO, later on JOE ENEA. The unidentified waitress advised that JENARO was still the manager of the Ad Lib, and would be in later, and also advised that JOE ENEA was no longer working at the Ad Lib, and that she thought he was presently employed at Alfie's Tavern on Teutonia Avenue.

At approximately 10:45, the Agents proceeded to the Brass Rail, 744 North 3rd Street, and found that the club was closed.

Police Order Bare Facts Under Cover

By GENE CUNNINGHAM

Milwaukee strippers who had stripped to G-strings will have to put their panties and mesh bars back on.

Operators of Milwaukee's three downtown strip spots were told this week that performers in their shows must wear fringed panties that cover the buttocks, and mesh or net bras with pasties, said Leonard Ziolkowski, police department vice squad captain.

In addition, Ziolkowski said, the operators were told that strippers cannot "feature any movement to simulate any type of sex act" or perform movements designed to sexually arouse their audiences. Ziolkowski said these standards of costume and performance had been enforced over the years and did not represent a change in interpretation of existing city ordinances.

Ziolkowski and Patrick J. Madden, an assistant city attorney, met Tuesday and discussed costume and movements of strippers as allowed by city ordinances.

Vice squad officers then talked to operators of the strip spots and restated to them the standards that must be met, Ziolkowski said.

James Jennaro, agent for the Ad Lib, and Rudolph Porchetta, operator of both the Brass Rail and the Downtowner, "were most co-operative and said they were willing to do as we required," Ziolkowski said.

Jennaro was told that the same rules that applied to female strippers would apply to the female impersonators featured in the Ad Lib's strip show, the captain said.

The featured performer in the Ad Lib show has been stripping to a G-string and pasties, discarding panties and bra. On occasion, the pasties also have been discarded.

Ziolkowski said he had been told that one of the show's female impersonators, arrested at the Ad Lib for indecently touching a vice squad officer, had been fired and was no longer in the show.

The impersonator, Brooks Walter Woodsman, 28, of 10315 W. Greenfield av., West Allis, performed at the Ad Lib as "Teri Tyler." Woodsman was convicted of the charge and given until Jan. 29 to pay a $50 fine or begin a 60 day jail sentence.

Jennaro Notified

Jennaro was notified by police last year that he could no longer serve as agent for the corporation operating the Ad Lib because he does not live in the city of Milwaukee.

The ordinance governing tavern licenses requires that the agent of a corporation operating a tavern be a resident of the city. An application naming Jerome Di Maggio as agent replacing Jennaro was filed with the license committee last November. Police said fingerprint reports on Jennaro and officers of Mando Enterprises, Inc., operator of the Ad Lib, have not yet been received from the federal bureau of investigation.

The fingerprinting is part of the investigation the department makes prior to submitting a recommendation on applications for licenses or changes of agent, police said.

In the meantime, Jennaro is continuing to operate the Ad Lib as agent for the corporation.

Was Bartender

Until he applied as agent for the Ad Lib, Di Maggio was a bartender at the Downtowner, operated for a number of years by Frank P. Balistrieri.

Porchetta, a longtime associate of Balistrieri, presently is agent for the Downtowner and recently was granted a tavern license to operate the Brass Rail, located in a building bought last year by Balistrieri's son, Atty. Joseph P. Balistrieri.

Ad Lib Club Chooses Another Spokesman

The corporation which runs the Ad Lib, 323 W. Wells st., has designated Nunzio A. Maniaci, 6912 N. 37th st., as agent for the nightclub.

The change was revealed Friday when Maniaci submitted an application to the city clerk to be recognized as agent. Maniaci listed his occupation as real estate broker and bank teller.

The agent represents the corporation. If the police department reports any violations to the common council, the license-rules committee usually requires the agent to appear at a committee meeting to explain.

Maniaci replaces Jerome DiMaggio, 2300 W. Roosevelt dr., who had applied as agent last November but failed to get the required police approval.

A police report filed with the city clerk a short time after Maniaci presented his application Friday said DiMaggio had been charged with making a false statement in his application as agent.

Appeared in Court

The report said DiMaggio had appeared on the charge Wednesday before County Judge F. Ryan Duffy, jr., who adjourned the case to Mar. 24.

Police said DiMaggio's application showed he had no convicted in 1951 for registering at a hotel with a woman not his wife and for advertising viciations. They said he was convicted without a permit. He received a suspended sentence in both cases.

Helmund H. Wolf, chief city license clerk, said the police disapproval made DiMaggio ineligible to serve as agent. He had been acting agent while his application was pending, Wolf said.

Suspension Query

Police had consulted with the city attorney's office Friday to determine whether the Ad Lib tavern license should be suspended as a result of the report on DiMaggio.

The city attorney's office said it should not, since the Maniaci application was received before the police report reached the clerk's office.

Wolf said Maniaci had reported juvenile offenses on his application but had failed to list a conviction for petty theft in South Montello, Fla., in 1963. Wolf said he had discovered the omission in checking Maniaci's 1967 application for a bartender's license.

That application said Maniaci had forfeited a $75 bond in the Florida case.

Wolf said the notice of the Florida conviction would be attached to the new application.

Violation Report On Ad Lib 'Lost'

By GENE CUNNINGHAM

A report police said was sent to the city clerk's office last year as notification of a tavern license violation at the Ad Lib, a downtown strip spot, apparently is missing.

Police said they learned last year that James Jennaro, registered agent for the corporation operating the Ad Lib, was not a resident of Milwaukee as required by the licensing ordinance.

Jennaro was advised by police that he would have to be replaced as agent, and a written report of his violation of the residency requirement was sent to the clerk, said Gregory F. Isermann, first district police captain.

Isermann said that he did not recall details on the date of the report but that it would be on file in the city clerk's office.

The report, however, was not in the Ad Lib license file in the clerk's office.

Helmund H. Wolf, chief license clerk, said he did not recall receiving such a report.

Wolf said the only written communications he had received relating to the naming of a new agent were an application for approval of Jerome Di Maggio as the new agent, and a letter from Atty. Joseph P. Balistrieri stating that Di Maggio was proposed as new agent replacing Jennaro.

Isermann said no charges were filed against Jennaro relative to the violation. Isermann said he had no copy of the report that was sent to city hall.

Jennaro, Isermann said, was under the impression that he had to be a resident of the city only at the time of his application as agent. Jennaro said he did not know he had to continue to live in the city in order to remain as agent, according to Isermann.

In an application for renewal of the Ad Lib license, dated June 11, 1968, Jennaro listed his address as 1684 N. Jackson st.

Jennaro, 38, lives at 855 N. Brenner dr., Brookfield.

A neighbor said he had lived there "about a year."

In his application to replace Jennaro as agent for Mando Enterprises, Inc., operator of the Ad Lib, Di Maggio listed his employment as a bartender for Ben-Kay, Inc.

Ben-Kay is the corporation operating the Downtowner, another strip spot operated for several years by Frank P. Balistrieri, Joseph Balistrieri's father.

Both Jennaro and Di Maggio are currently at the Ad Lib — Di Maggio tending bar and Jennaro apparently functioning as manager.

In 1965, Jennaro, as agent for Mando Enterprises, filed application for a tavern license for Chez Joey, 323 W. Wells st., where the Ad Lib opened in 1966.

In his sworn application, Jennaro stated that he had never been convicted of violations of federal or state laws or local ordinances.

A sworn amendment to the application corrects it to show that Jennaro was convicted of local and state violations. The amendment was filed a month after the application.

The violations were listed as resisting an officer in 1949 and auto speeding and indecent liberties with a female, both in 1952.

Jennaro's application stated that Mando Enterprises had a 10 year lease, until June 30, 1975, on the building at 323 W. Wells st., which it rented from Towne Realty. Mando owned the fixtures, the application said.

On his pending application as agent, Di Maggio lists the rent on the Ad Lib building at $600 a month.

Joseph Balistrieri raised the rent from $600 to $1,100 a month on the Brass Rail, a N. 3rd st. strip spot, after he bought the building late last year, Irvin L. Pogrob, former Brass Rail operator, said earlier.

Pogrob closed the strip joint Dec. 1, saying he did so because of the raise in rent by Balistrieri.

That same month, Rudolph Porchetta, longtime associate of Frank P. Balistrieri, applied for and received a license to operate the Brass Rail.

In 1967, Frank Balistrieri was sentenced to two years in prison and fined $10,000 on a federal conviction of income tax evasion. An appeal to the United States supreme court is pending.

Ad Lib Shows 'No Deviation'

An assistant city attorney said Friday police had told him that performances featuring female impersonators at a downtown strip joint, the Ad Lib, were not a deviation from previously accepted community standards.

However, said Patrick J. Madden, an assistant city attorney, police plan to continue observance of performances at the night spot, located at 323 W. Wells st.

Madden said that he conferred Friday with two members of the vice squad who observed a two hour show at the Ad Lib Thursday night.

He said the conference was the result of a number of inquiries from individual police officers who asked whether performances or the garb of the dancers violated city ordinances.

Madden said he previously had been told by police that performers at the night spot sometimes used "suggestive" words.

The vice squad officers who observed the show Thursday night told Madden that they heard no such words.

"They said they didn't find it (the performance) any different from the type of conduct that has previously been accepted in the city," he said.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date May 20, 1969

At 5:37 p.m., Special Agent [redacted] and Special Agent [redacted] took up a position on Brown Deer Road, near the parking lot of the Bayside Garden Shop, located just east of North Regent Road. From this position the Agents were able to observe a white 1967 Chrysler, bearing Wisconsin license [redacted] parked in the driveway of 8676 North Manor Court, the home of FRANK LEO SANSONE.

At approximately 5:39 p.m., SANSONE was observed in front of his house dressed in a black business suit and was thereafter observed in the back yard at approximately 6:20 p.m., driving a lawn tractor, cutting his grass.

At approximately 7:35 p.m., SANSONE entered his white Chrysler, which is registered to [redacted] and was observed pulling out of the driveway. He was next observed at 7:36 p.m., turning west onto Brown Deer Road from North Regent Road. He proceeded west to Highway 141 and entered the south-bound expressway at 7:38 p.m. At 7:47 p.m., SANSONE exited Highway 141 at the 6th Street exit. He was thereafter observed arriving in front of the 5th Street entrance of the Sheraton-Schroeder Hotel at 7:52 p.m. On getting out of his car, SANSONE gave a tip and his car keys to a bellhop or doorman at the hotel, who then parked his car in a "no parking" zone. Thereafter SANSONE entered Fazio's On Fifth.

Upon entering Fazio's On Fifth, the Agents observed SANSONE seated at the very first table inside the dining room but also observed that SANSONE was moving around the restaurant and bar area, talking with people and looking around. At about 8:45 p.m.,

MI- 92-565

On 5/19/69 at Milwaukee, Wis. File # _____

SANSONE went back to the dining room where he remained.

On entering the dining room, Agents [ ] observed SANSONE seated with LOUIE FAZIO and an unidentified white male, 65 years old, gray hair, balding. The Agents took a seat in the dining room and attempted to observe SANSONE's activities. Due to the seating arrangements in the dining room and the fact that the lights were dimmed for the floor show, it was extremely difficult to observe SANSONE's activities. However, it was noted he was contacted by five or six unidentified white males between 9 and 10:15 p.m. In view of the fact he was seated with LOUIE FAZIO and the above-described unidentified white male, it would be impossible to state positively exactly who each of the visitors to the table contacted.

Seated next to the Agents in the dining room was [ ]. He was accompanied by [ ] and a Negro couple, the female of which was identified from the floor as [ ] (phonetic) of the Playboy Club in Lake Geneva. Also seated at the table was a man introduced as a comedian by the name of TONY SANTURO (phonetic). The floor show consisted of a set of [ ] who made the above introductions and while doing so introduced [ ] as [ ] the man who had been so helpful to us and acted as our manager while we were in Milwaukee."

At approximately 10:15 p.m., the Agents left Fazio's and on leaving observed [ ] seated at the bar. At this time FRANK SANSONE was standing in the vestibule of the restaurant, talking with the [ ] and some of the patrons of the restaurant.

At approximately 10:30 p.m., the Agents entered the Ad Lib Club, 323 West Wells, where they took a table and were joined a short time later by JIMMY JENNARO, the manager of the Ad Lib. In casual conversation with JENNARO, he spoke of the present operation of the Ad Lib, emphasizing the fact the Ad Lib no longer featured female impersonators but now produced strictly strip acts. He said he had also fired [ ] a comedian, whom he thought had been "too raw" and had cost the Ad Lib business. It was mentioned that [ ] normally working behind the bar at the Ad Lib, was not present, to which JENNARO replied that JERRY had been in the hospital for the past week and would probably be in there for another couple of weeks having tests. He said [ ] was extremely overweight and has a stomach problem.

JENNARO also mentioned that JOE ENEA was still working at Alfie's Tavern on North Teutonia and that [ ] was working at the Kings IV. JENNARO mentioned that he enjoyed living out in Brookfield; however, he missed the east side of Milwaukee, but he said that Brookfield was better for his family, which consists of his wife and three children, two girls and a boy, ages 12, 10, and 5.

JENNARO mentioned that he has barred [ ] from the Ad Lib Club because of [ ] notoriety stemming from arrests of burglary and armed robbery charges. He described [ ] as a "dumbbell" who had never been anything more than a thief and would never be anything more than a thief. At this point, WALTER "BLACKIE" BROCCA came by the table and spoke with JENNARO, shortly after which JENNARO mentioned that BROCCA is an extremely cleaver craftsman, being a capable carpenter, plumber, and mason. He said that BROCCA had built the Kings IV almost single handedly, under great pressures.

JENNARO also mentioned that FRANK BALISTRIERI's case looked as though it would be going back to the District Court and that nothing would happen to FRANK for at least a year. JENNARO also advised the Agents that Sally's Steak House does not intend to close and that SALLY has a ten-year lease at the Knickerbocker Hotel. He stated that [ ] continues to manage Sally's, that [ ] has been employed as the maitre d'hotel for the last two or three months, and that [ ] son of [ ] is in no way connected with the operation of Sally's Restaurant.

At approximately 8 p.m. Special Agents [redacted] entered Alfie's Tavern, 4126 North Teutonia, where they observed JOSEPH FRANK ENEA tending bar. At the time of the Agents' arrival, there was one other customer in the bar, who left shortly after the Agents arrived. In approximately the next 45 minutes, one other customer entered the bar and spent approximately five minutes and left. During the rest of the time, the bar was empty, with the exception of the Agents and ENEA.

During the course of conversation, ENEA was given an opportunity to view photographs of known Negro burglars in the Milwaukee area. After doing so, he advised that none of the individuals were familiar to him. He stated that the tavern is a high-class establishment and they have no troublemakers or other problems as customers. He stated that if he did not throw troublemakers out himself, his regular Negro customers would do so. ENEA spoke generally of the changing racial situation in the North Teutonia Avenue area, where Alfie's is located, indicating that the Negro population is increasing rapidly. He expressed a dissatisfaction in the way law enforcement and political officials have handled race riots and the rising Black Panther threat.

ENEA advised he was feeling the pinch of the Milwaukee brewery strike and had only Miller beer available. He indicated his heavy business was in liquor rather than beer and stated that on weekends Alfie's was so packed that there was standing room only. He advised that Alfie's provides live entertainment from Wednesdays through Sunday. ENEA indicated he is at the bar whenever it is open.

Upon arriving at the Kings IV, a powder blue 1968 Cadillac El Dorado, bearing Wisconsin license B29-907, (registered to FRANK P. BALISTRERI) was observed parked in a no parking any time zone in front of the Kings IV. Upon entering the Kings IV, the Agents observed that there was only one couple in the downstairs area and the waiters and waitresses were sitting at tables due to lack of business. The bartender, who was unknown to the Agents, was described as a white male, 23 years old, 6'1", 190 pounds, dark brown hair (long sideburns), brown eyes.

The Agents took a seat at the bar and shortly thereafter [redacted] came into the bar in an obviously intoxicated condition. [redacted] was with another man, later identified as [redacted] (phonetic), a liquor salesman. Conversation between [redacted] and [redacted] and the bartender indicated that [redacted] and [redacted] had been stood up by two women whom they had been with in the bar earlier. During the course of conversation, the bartender was asked by Agent [redacted] whether or not the upstairs area of the Kings IV was yet open. He replied that they were not and would probably not be for another couple of weeks.

At approximately 10 p.m., the Agents left the Kings IV and proceeded to the Ad Lib Club, 323 West Wells. The following were observed at the Ad Lib Club:

JAMES RAYMOND JENNARO, manager of the Ad Lib

WALTER BROCCA

SALLY PAPIA, operator of Sally's Steak House

During the course of conversation with JIMMY JENNARO, he indicated that since the Ad Lib had terminated female impersonators, Saturday night business had fallen off to the tune of approximately $500.00. He stated, however, that the relief from problems that the impersonators created; i.e., an excess number of homosexual customers and incidents with the police department; was worth the loss of money. JENNARO was asked how [redacted] was doing and he replied that [redacted] had cancer and was receiving cobalt treatments at Madison, Wis., five days a week and was returning to Milwaukee on the weekends only.

At approximately 11:30 p.m., SALLY PAPIA, WALTER BROCCA, and [redacted] entered the Ad Lib, where they conversed with JENNARO and then sat at a table with other unidentified customers. At about the same time, the unidentified man previously seen at the Kings IV in the company of [redacted] arrived at the Ad Lib by himself. He spoke with JIMMY JENNARO, who thereafter identified him to the Agents as [redacted] a liquor salesman.

Shortly thereafter, surveillance was terminated.

Manager of Sally's Testifies

James Jennaro, manager of Sally's Steak House at 1028 E. Juneau Ave., testified Monday before a Federal Grand Jury here.

The grand jury began investigation into gambling activities in the Milwaukee area, stemming from raids conducted on Super Bowl Sunday last January by FBI agents here.

The jury is also expected to hear cases involving income tax evasion and interstate transportation of stolen property, according to the US district attorney's office.

Appearance before a grand jury does not mean, however, that a person is suspected of wrongdoing. Witnesses are often called only to supply information in investigations.

Neither the FBI nor the US attorney's office would confirm whether Jennaro was testifying in connection with the gambling investigation.

2 Women Testify In Soliciting Case

Two women testified Thursday that James Jennaro, manager of Sally's Steak House, twice introduced them to men at the restaurant for prostitution purposes.

Jennaro told the jury in the courtroom of Reserve Circuit Judge Max Raskin that he had never solicited a prostitute.

"No way," he said. "Never."

The women, Katherine (Casey) Erbach, 21, and Angela Wiedenhoft, 22, both said they worked as prostitutes out of the Tender Trap, 514 E. Center St., in 1973.

Leroy Bell, 48, who managed the Tender Trap, and Jennaro, 44, are charged with two counts of soliciting.

Miss Erbach, granted immunity to testify, said Bell sent her to Sally's, in May, 1973.

When she arrived, Jennaro introduced her to a man, she said. She had intercourse with the man at a nearby hotel, she said, and was paid $100 by the man.

She returned to the restaurant and showed Jennaro "the $100 bill," Miss Erbach said. "I smiled and I was happy."

"I asked, 'Could you change this for me, I want to take a cab to the Tender Trap and I don't think too many cab drivers change $100 bills.'"

She also testified that after being interviewed by state agents last year about prostitution she told Bell that she had told them nothing.

Referring to Bell, she stated, "He said, 'That's good because if you had told them something you might get yourself killed.'"

Miss Wiedenhoft said Bell sent her to Sally's in March, 1973. Jennaro introduced her to an elderly man and she had an act of sexual perversion with this man later, she said.

Bell did not take the stand. Jennaro said he had never discussed prostitution with Bell.

An average of 400 persons a day come into the restaurant, he said.

"I don't know if they are prostitutes businessmen, judges or lawyers," Jennaro said. "We serve all people."

He said he was paid $21,000 a year as manager of a restaurant that grossed almost $1 million last year.

Questioning him concerning prostitution was a disgrace to him and his family, Jennaro said.

The case was adjourned to Friday for final arguments and consideration by the jury.

Jennaro, Bell Convicted of Soliciting

by WILLIAM JANZ

James Jennaro, manager of Sally's Steak House, was found guilty Friday by a Circuit Court jury of soliciting a prostitute.

The jury also found Leroy Bell, former manager of the Tender Trap tavern, guilty of the same charge.

In his final argument, Thomas Schneider, an assistant district attorney, said that a prostitute was "assisted, advised and procured" for a restaurant patron by Bell and Jennaro.

"They did everything but turn back the covers on the bed," Schneider said.

Jennaro

Bell

He referred to the testimony of the key witness, Katherine (Casey) Erbach, 21.

She said that she worked as a prostitute at the Tender Trap for several months in 1973. One day in May of that year, Bell sent her to Sally's where, she said, Jennaro introduced her to a man.

She testified that she had intercourse with the man at a nearby hotel and was paid $100.

Franklyn Gimbel, the attorney for Jennaro, said, "In 15 years of practice, including 5 years as a federal prosecutor, I've never heard a witness so schooled..."

He accused Schneider of coaching witnesses, twisting words, exaggerating testimony and changing meanings of testimony.

Bell's attorney, Dominic Frinzi, referred to two prostitutes who testified as "women of flexible virtue." He said their testimony was unbelievable.

Indicating Miss Erbach, who was granted immunity, Frinzi said, "She has you believe that she is a modern day Mary Magdalene."

Reserve Circuit Judge Max Raskin ordered a presentence investigation for Jennaro, 44, of 1570 N. Prospect Ave. and adjourned the case to May 19. The case against Bell, 48, of 4010 N. 6th St., was adjourned to Monday for sentencing.

Report on Jennaro Tells of Activities

James R. Jennaro, sentenced Monday on a charge of soliciting a prostitute, was described as being connected to a variety of organized criminal activity here and being associated with, among others, Frank P. Balistreri and Frank Buccieri.

The descriptions are from a presentence report given to Reserve Circuit Judge Max Raskin prior to sentencing of Jennaro, 45, of 1570 N. Prospect Ave., manager of Sally's Steak House.

According to the report, local, state and federal authorities "...definitely believe that this defendant is a principal figure in organized and syndicated crime in Milwaukee and possibly interstate."

Balistreri is a "regular and verified associate" of Jennaro and they were seen several times together outside Sally's, according to the report.

The report describes Balistreri as a "convicted income tax violator and dubbed the father of the Milwaukee crime family" by Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark.).

Buccieri Mentioned

The report calls Buccieri a known "loan shark" and "theft convict from Chicago" who has been seen "regularly and frequently in meetings" at Trovato's Restaurant and the Towne Room East recently by district attorney office investigators, the Milwaukee Police Department and state Criminal Justice agents.

Raskin placed Jennaro on two years probation, with the first year to be served in the House of Correction under the Huber law. He also fined Jennaro $1,000.

Jennaro and Leroy Bell, 48, former manager of the Tender Trap Tavern, 514 E. Center St., were found guilty in April by a jury of arranging an act of prostitution for a 21-year old woman.

Raskin sentenced Bell to two years to run concurrently with a six year sentence Raskin gave him April 21 for pandering, soliciting a prostitute and threatening to injure a witness.

Possible References

The report also mentions "associates of good reputation" named by Jennaro as personal references.

These include Circuit Judge Ralph Podell; Eugene Cuske, vice president and employee relations director for Newspapers, Inc.; John Spicuzza, a Roundy's, Inc., executive; Daniel Tishberg, president of Towne Realty, Inc., and Father Leonard Sherrer, of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, of which Jennaro is a member.

Another reference, Dr. Donald Ackerman, was quoted in the report as saying he was Jennaro's physician.

The probation agent who prepared the report stated he also contacted Children Court Judge William A. Jennaro, a cousin of James Jennaro.

The judge was quoted in the report as being surprised by the charges and that he knew him "to be a gentleman, a kind man and concerned for his family."

James Jennaro was quoted in the report as saying, "I don't know why I'm convicted of this crime. It's just not true. I allegedly introduced some men to some women. The women happened to be prostitutes. What they did together was none of my business. I didn't do anything that any other tavern keeper hasn't done."

DA Lambasts Jennaro's Sentence

The sentence given to James R. Jennaro, 45, for soliciting a prostitute was called a farce Tuesday by Dist. Atty. E. Michael McCann. Jennaro was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction under the Huber Law followed by a year's probation.

McCann also said Jennaro's sentence was an example that white persons were treated better than blacks in the criminal justice system.

At the same time, Jennaro indicated to state probation officials that he intended to ask to spend no more than six hours a day in the House of Correction on the six days a week he works at Sally's Steak House, the restaurant he manages at 1023 E. Juneau Ave.

Jennaro, of 1570 N. Prospect Ave., was sentenced Monday by Reserve Circuit Judge Max Raskin. Raskin said he would make no comment about McCann's remarks.

"We are profoundly disappointed with Jennaro's sentence," McCann said. "Probation is a farce for him."

McCann said admission of guilt was "the heart of rehabilitation and the desire to change," and that Jennaro had not admitted that he solicited a prostitute before, during or after his jury trial.

"There is no meaningful indication that Jennaro intends to terminate his association with those people mentioned in his presentence report who are known to have underworld activity," McCann said.

Those people mentioned in the report included Frank P. Balistreri, convicted of income tax evasion, and Frank Buccieri, brother of the late Chicago crime figure, Fiore (Fifi) Buccieri. Frank Buccieri was described as a "known loan shark" and theft convict from Chicago in the report.

Sentences Contrasted
McCann contrasted Jennaro's sentence to that of a black person who had been convicted on prostitution charges.

He read names of seven blacks who had been convicted in Federal Court for prostitution related offenses and received sentences ranging from one year to eight years in prison.

He said that in Circuit Court five blacks convicted on prostitution related crimes received sentences ranging from 4½ years to 9 years and 11 months.

McCann said Rose M. Curro, 37, a white woman, ran a high level call girl operation, was sentenced a year ago by Raskin for soliciting a prostitute and was released four months later from the State Home for Women at Taycheedah.

"Whites with organized crime connections who promote prostitution clearly fare better than blacks who promote prostitution whether they have organized crime connections or not," McCann said.

Poor Image

He added that "the underworld insiders will not fail to note the treatment of Curro and Jennaro.

"This will reinforce the cynical perception of the law by organized criminals and will enhance the perception by blacks that whites generally fare better in the criminal justice system," McCann said.

Jennaro will begin his one year Huber Law sentence at the House of Correction June 16.

According to officials at the State Department of Health and Social Services, Jennaro has informed them that he works at the restaurant from 8 a.m. to 2 a.m. six days a week. Huber Law provides that a person be released from jail to work and return to jail after working.

Hours Compared

Estimating that Jennaro will spend about six hours a day in jail, McCann said:

"While others are spending stifling hours in the jail, Jennaro will wile away the hours in an air conditioned restaurant, exchanging pleasantries."

Jennaro's lawyer, Franklyn M. Gimbel, said about McCann's statements:

"I'm surprised and shocked that our district attorney would talk about a person who currently has charges pending against him. This type of commenting smacks of trial by newspaper."

Gimbel was referring to state and federal charges facing Jennaro, Mrs. Sally Papia, operator of Sally's, and four others.

Alleged Plot

They are accused of various charges in connection with an alleged extortion plot. The charges stem from an investigation of a fire last Dec. 30 at the Northbrook Inn, 9601 N. 24th St.

An operator of the Northbrook was Kurt Amidzich, now a cook at the Towne Room

East, 916 E. State St. He allegedly owed Mrs. Papia money.

In the presentence report, several persons were named as character references by Jennaro to a state probation agent.

One of them, Eugene Cuske, employe relations director and a vice president of The Journal Company, said he was unaware that Jennaro would name him as a reference, explaining that Jennaro had never asked him if his name could be used.

"I know the man because I frequent the restaurant," Cuske said of Jennaro. "He's friendly with me and I am friendly with him. It is not a personal friendship, but I know nothing derogatory about the guy, except what I've read in the newspapers."

Father Leonard Scherrer of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, where Jennaro attends Mass, said:

"Mr. Jennaro has always been and still is a very high minded man. I never saw any indication of anything other than that."

Judges Shifted

Circuit Judge Robert M. Curley granted a petition Monday brought by Gimbel prohibiting Reserve County Judge Carl Bjork from conducting a preliminary hearing on charges against Mrs. Papia.

Gimbel had asked that Bjork not hear the case since Jennaro had appeared before Bjork earlier for a preliminary hearing on the charge of soliciting a prostitute.

County Judge Patrick J. Madden was selected by lot to conduct the preliminary hearing Thursday.

Police Balk At License For Sally's

By RON MAROSE

The Milwaukee Police Department has for the first time objected to the renewal of the tavern license for Sally's Steak House at 1028 E. Juneau Ave.

The police department license application report, returned Friday to the city license clerk's office, objects to the renewal because of "type of operation by employees and the owner Sally Papia," and the recent arrests of Mrs. Papia, James R. Jennaro, "the purported manager," and former headwaiter Maximillion J. Adonis.

Also attached to the regular license report are the arrest records of Mrs. Papia, of 2880 N. Menomonee River Pkwy.; Jennaro, of 1570 N. Prospect Ave.; Adonis, of 1224 S. 14th St., and Russell J. Enea, of 4839 N. Anita Ave., Whitefish Bay, listed on the arrest record as assistant manager of the restaurant.

Plead Not Guilty

Mrs. Papia and the others have pleaded not guilty to state and federal charges stemming from an alleged extortion plot and arson.

Mrs. Papia is charged with arson, threats to injure and loan extortion.

It was learned recently that Mrs. Papia had complained convictions for resisting an threatened to object to renewal of her license unless she fired Jennaro.

Jennaro in April was found guilty of soliciting a prostitute. He was sentenced to one year in the House of Correction under the Huber law and fined $1,000.

Miss Beverly Teter, senior license clerk, said that this was the first time that police had objected to renewal of the license for the popular restaurant.

All tavern licenses expire on June 30.

Mrs. Papia's license is scheduled for a renewal hearing Tuesday.

List Convictions

According to the police report, Jennaro's record includes convictions for resisting an officer and taking indecent liberties with a female child.

Police reported that Adonis' record includes convictions for issuance of a worthless check, operating an auto after revocation of an operator's license, theft, speeding, false imprisonment and aggravated battery.

Enea has been convicted of speeding and operating an auto after revocation of his license.

License Threat Irks Mrs. Papia

By RON MAROSE

Mrs. Sally Papia, operator of Sally's Steak House, has complained to city officials that Ald. Kevin D. O'Connor has threatened to block renewal of her bar license unless she fires her restaurant manager, James Jennaro, City Hall sources said Thursday.

O'Connor would not comment on Mrs. Papia's complaint, but it was learned that he is personally reviewing the renewal of all tavern licenses in his district, which includes the downtown.

Sources have said that the alderman is zeroing in on night spots that have been involved in many police complaints and has contacted some owners, making it clear that he will not support renewals of the licenses unless conditions change.

The city licenses expire June 30.

Jennaro was found guilty in April of soliciting a prostitute.

Circuit Judge Max Raskin sentenced Jennaro to one year in the House of Correction under the Huber law and fined him $1,000.

According to one city source, O'Connor asked that Mrs. Papia sign a statement that she will fire Jennaro before O'Connor would support renewal of the license for her place at 1028 E. Juneau Ave.

If Jennaro, 45, of 1570 N. Prospect Ave., loses his job and cannot immediately find another, he would be forced to spend full time in jail.

During his trial, Jennaro testified that he was paid $21,000 a year as manager of a restaurant that grossed almost $1 million last year.

One City Hall source whom Mrs. Papia complained to questioned whether O'Connor could impose such a condition for renewal of a license.

He said that no law bars a person convicted of such an offense from managing a restaurant.

"I have nothing to say on that," said O'Connor, when asked about the complaint. Mrs. Papia also could not be reached for comment Thursday night.

It was reported that Mrs. Papia was angry over the threat to her popular restaurant and did not want to accept the condition.

"She hasn't got much choice," said one City Hall official.

Franklyn M. Gimbel, attorney for Mrs. Papia and Jennaro, declined to comment on the City Hall reports because he said that there would be motions after the verdict Monday in a case involving Jennaro.

Mrs. Papia and five other persons, including Jennaro, pleaded not guilty in May to charges stemming from an alleged extortion plot and arson.

Mrs. Papia is charged with arson, threats to injure and loan extortion.

Sally's Seeks Unconditional Bar License

Sally's Steak House Tuesday asked the Circuit Court to remove a Common Council condition that James Jennaro be removed as its general manager in order to obtain renewal of its tavern license.

Jennaro's services "are necessary for the proper management of the restaurant and its related activities," according to the complaint.

The council last month approved the license renewal for the restaurant at 1028 E. Juneau Ave. after the restaurant management agreed to the condition.

Ald. Kevin D. O'Connor had insisted on the condition because of Jennaro's recent conviction on a charge of soliciting a prostitute.

In an affidavit with the complaint, Mrs. Sally Papia, who operates the restaurant, stated she has had to spend additional hours at the restaurant, as have other employees, because of Jennaro's absence. She also stated she has not been able to get a replacement with comparable experience.

The complaint, which names all members of the Common Council, asks the court to remove the condition, saying the council action was "arbitrary and capricious."

The complaint was assigned to Circuit Judge Harold B. Jackson Jr.

5 Enter Pleas Of Not Guilty On Extortion

Five men indicted with Sally Papia in connection with an alleged extortion plot pleaded not guilty Friday in Federal Court.

Mrs. Papia, 43, of 2880 N. Menomonee River Pkwy., who operates Sally's Steak House, is to appear in court next Friday for arraignment and plea.

Federal Judge John W. Reynolds set a Nov. 17 trial date for the five men. They are: James R. Jennaro, 44, of 1570 N. Prospect Ave.; Russell J. Enea, 34, of 8720 Pelham Pkwy.; Bayside, Maximillion J. Adonnis, 40, of 1227 S. 14th St.; Joseph V. Basile, 34, of 1441 Cherrywood La., Brown Deer, and Herbert H. Holland, 32, of 8531 W. Douglas Ave.

Atty. Franklyn M. Gimbel, representing Jennaro, told the court he intended to file motions seeking separate trials for the defendants.

The six are charged with conspiracy in an alleged extortion scheme, which resulted in a fire last Dec. 30 at the Northbrook Inn, 9601 N. 12th St. The restaurant was operated by Kurt Amidzich, a former chef at Mrs. Papia's restaurant.

Reynolds set June 30 as the date for defense motions, July 21 for government responses, and Aug. 22 as the date for a status report.

Leah Lampone, an assistant US attorney, told the court that the government saw a possible conflict of interest in having Gimbel represent Jennaro and Mrs. Papia, since Gimbel's brother and law partner, Stanley Gimbel, is going to be a government witness in the case.

She said the government also saw a possible conflict of interest in Atty. Gerald P. Boyle representing Enea, since Boyle had previously represented Holland in state cases.
